God's desire that we share in the divine life is the miracle of Easter morning. In the light of this supreme grace we become courageous witnesses, like Saint Peter in the first reading.

Human beings can forgive and receive forgiveness from each other. Only God can forgive the sins of all humanity, in every time and place. This is the good news of Easter. Bathed in the radiant light of Jesus' resurrection, we receive nothing less than divine life itself. Sin no longer has the last word on human existence.

Easter is the "feast of feasts," when we join our voices to the church's joyful celebration of Jesus' victory over sin and death. Jesus' resurrection is the pattern of the newness of divine life we are invited to live in every day. As the joyful hope of Easter echoes within us, we become loving witness of the risen Jesus to a wounded world, as we pray with Easter faith, "speak to me, Lord."
