Reflection on the Feast of Christ the King

The Feast of Christ the King reminds us that Jesus' kingship is unlike any earthly power. He does not rule through force, wealth, or prestige, but through humble service, mercy, and sacrificial love. His throne is the cross, and His crown is one of thorns—yet from this place of apparent weakness, He reveals the fullness of God's strength.

Celebrating Christ as King invites us to examine our own hearts:

Who truly guides my choices, shapes my values, and directs my life?

Allowing Christ to reign within us means choosing forgiveness over resentment, compassion over indifference, and truth over convenience. It is a call to build His kingdom here and now, beginning with the way we treat one another.

As this liturgical year closes, we look to Christ the King with hope. His kingdom is one of justice, peace, and love—a kingdom that will have no end. May we let His reign take deep root in our lives so that through us, others may come to know the King who serves, heals, and saves.
